Silver Deposits Permanent.

In his treatise on silver mines Fuller says: "Wherever in any part of the world, silver mines have been worked, they are worked now, unless from war, invasions of Indians, etc. We know of no silver mining region in the world that has given out. Mexican mines, worked by the Aztecs before the conquest by Cortez, are still worked as profitably as ever. The old Spanish mines opened before Hannibal's time, are still worked with enormous profits. The South American mines have constantly yielded their wealth for more than 300 years, and are as productive as ever. Mines in Hungary that were worked by the Romans long before the Saviour's time, are still worked with profit. The silver mines of Frisburg, opened in the 11th century, still yield their increase. So in Norway, Sweden and Russia, and indeed wherever silver mines have been opened, they continue to be worked at the present, and are more productive."

History of the Suro Tunnel.

Ground was broken for the Suro Tunnel, October 18, 1869. The work has therefore required eight years, eight months and ten days to complete it. The progress was very slow at first, all drilling having been done by hand, but in 1874, experiments with the Barleigh drill demonstrated the advantages to be derived from the use of that machine, a carriage capable of carrying six of those drills while at work was made, and on June 22, 1874, four were started, and on August 7, two more drills were put at work. From that date the average progress was over 300 feet per month, up to April, 1877, when the header having entered the belt, the heat became so intense that two drills had to be taken off the carriage. From that time it did not exceed 250 feet. Work has been continued uninterruptedly from the time ground was broken until to day, but at times only two men were at work. The greatest progress was in December, 1875, when the header was advanced 417 feet, and the least in October, 1870 when it reached only 19 feet. The total length of the tunnel is 20,173 feet. The tunnel has cost over $4,000,000.

J. W. Evans, who has just returned from a trip to the southern portion of the Territory, reports great activity in the Tombstone District. A Mr. Sevenoaks has bonded nine mines there for 60 days for $90,000. Much of the rock is immensely rich, going from $300 upwards. One mine, sunk only ten feet has been sold for $10,000. A number of others have been sold for $5,000 cash. The weather hot. —Enterprise.

Recent statements from Camp Thomas in reference to the killing of Montgomery at Jones' saloon, gives a different coloring to the cause that led to the homicide, and more favorable to the boys in blue. The statement is that, Montgomery had proclaimed himself cock of the walk that he was decidedly on it. The striking on the head and knocking down of the soldiers a night or two previous to the killing was regarded as a verification that he really believed himself the gallant fowl he represented himself to be.

We hope in the near future to be able to record the facts of the lamentable occurrence. Human life should never be taken unless under circumstances that renders killing absolutely necessary and in self-defense. —(Globe City) Bell.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Now that the Mineral Resources of Arizona are being rapidly developed, agricultural products will be in great demand and the Farmer will quickly find himself King, and while enjoying home comforts will reap largely of the golden harvest of the hardy miner. Prospectors who are searching the mountains for hidden treasures—it may be poor as Job's turkey—will in a moment find themselves Bonanza Kings and be able to revel in luxury the rest of their days; but all men cannot become owners of rich mines! All men cannot become wealthy farmers! To the great mass of mankind the price of pork and beans will still be an object.
